New Year, New Ideas, New Goals

First things first, start your year off right!

Committee reorganization, set meeting dates for the year.

Make time to onboard new members, maybe a separate meeting with one or two members.

Send ANJEC (info@anjec.org) your updated committee list along with dues payment.

Next to consider:

Present your annual report to governing body and/or planning board

Can you make a goal to connect with local ECs in your area?

How about reaching out to a watershed organization?

Sign up for trainings, conferences

Spring clean up planning...

Things to consider annually:

Ordinance review & recommendations

- Stormwater
- Tree
- Others? Native Plants, Leaf Blower, Water Restrictions -lawn etc.

Review and make recommendations on the MS4 Permit Public Engagement

*Time to Update
ERI/NRI?*

Review Municipal Zoning –mapping websites

Things to consider annually, continued

Time to Update ERI/NRI?

Review Municipal Zoning –mapping websites

Environmental Resource Inventory

An ERI provides baseline documentation for measuring and evaluating resource protection issues. It includes an objective index and description of features and their functions, rather than an interpretation or recommendation. An ERI can also be referred to as a natural resource inventory (NRI).

More things to consider annually

Coordinate an event with other municipal group

Outreach materials –do you have language needs?

Review site plans, are members trained?

Follow ANJEC on social media, events and ideas from other groups!
